

QSL Board Selection Committee

Nominations are being called to fill a grower vacancy on the QSL Board Selection Committee (BSC).

The QSL BSC has the role of appointing independent directors to the QSL Board. The BSC has four members – two elected by QSL's Grower Representative Members and two elected by the QSL Mill Owner Members eligible to participate in this process.

Mr Paul Schembri, one of the two grower representatives on the BSC, recently resigned from the board selection committee following his appointment as an Industry Grower Director of QSL, to comply with good corporate governance practice. As a result, nominations are now open to fill this BSC grower representative role for a three-year term.

Growers who would like to be considered for the position must complete a nomination form, available from their local QSL Grower Representative Member. Contact details for your local QSL Grower Representative Member are available on the QSL website at the following link: <http://www.qsl.com.au/who-we-are/corporate-structure/qsl-members>.

If more than one nomination for the available position is received, QSL Grower Representative Members will vote to decide the successful candidate.

The nomination period closes at 5pm Queensland time on Thursday 9 February 2017.
