

The SRA e-Newsletter can be viewed in a browser window by Clicking here.

Dear Grower,

In this eNewsletter we provide a further update on farm hygiene in relation to COVID-19, we visit the Wet Tropics to talk soil health, and we invite you to our upcoming webinar on yellow canopy syndrome.

Farm hygiene and COVID-19

SRA Southern Region Adoption Graduate, Hannah Russell, and Regional Coordinator, James Ogden-Brown, have developed a short video on farm hygiene in relation to COVID-19.

Safe Work Australia has also developed a comprehensive information sheet for agricultural industries about minimising the risk of exposure. You can access it here. You can also access the Australian Government guidelines here. This video is general in nature and is intended to support existing official material on COVID-19.

Upcoming webinar: Yellow canopy syndrome

Please join Sugar Research Australia's Gerard Scalia for this update on recent research and findings from the YCS research program. In the webinar, Mr Scalia will discuss what YCS is, its symptoms, and what this means for you as a grower.

CaneClip: Wet Tropics soil health

Check out our latest Soil Health video featuring Peter Sutherland from Tully Cane Productivity Services Limited and Charissa Rixon from T.R.A.P. Services chatting about the value of paired sites in Tully as part of the Wet Tropics Soil Health Project. Charissa also speaks with grower participant Don Cavallaro about why he was interested in being involved in the project.

The Wet Tropics Soil Health Project is supported by the Department of Agriculture, through funding from Australian Government's National Landcare Program, and Sugar Research Australia with assistance from T.R.A.P Services, Tully Sugar Ltd, MSF Sugar, Tully Cane Productivity Services Ltd, Queensland Government Department of Agriculture and Fisheries, WTSIP, The University of Queensland and University of Southern Queensland.

To find out more visit www.sugarresearch.com.au/soilhealth

Milling Regional Research Seminars

In light of the COVID-19 situation, the annual QUT/SRA milling regional research seminars have shifted to an online webinar format. For more information visit the SRA website.

Copyright © 2020 Sugar Research Australia
Telephone 07 3331 3333 Email sra@sugarresearch.com.au

Our address is 50 Meiers Road, Indooroopilly, Qld, 4068