

INSPECTION OF LARGE-SCALE TRIAL CROPS

Hello all,

Growers and agronomists across Northern Australia have the chance to inspect large-scale trial crops of black sesame, fennel and kalonji, as the Cooperative research Centre for Developing Northern Australia (CRCNA) and CQUniversity's Spicing Up Northern Australia research project takes another step towards commercial viability.

A field walk will be held in the Burdekin at a property at the Haughton on Thursday 21st October 4pm – 5:30pm (approx.).

Due to the extensive roadworks in the area, the route to the property is via a series of detours. To simplify access everyone will meet at the corner of Link Road and Giru-Woodstock Road at 4pm and drive into the site from there as a group in convoy. For more information contact Tienieke Trotter on t.trotter@cqu.edu.au or on 0402 406 385.

Regards,
Arwen
