

What is a farmer peer-to-peer group?

Farmers come together to work on a common goal and share an interest in learning how to improve their farm

Improving soil run-off is a real challenge

Share experiences

Improve your farm

New ideas

Farmers learn from other farmers

Connect with other farmers

Self-managed

Choose what to learn

Farmers help each other learn through activities and discussions

I heard some helpful information at a workshop

Find a mentor

A facilitator can help support the group and run meetings

Trusted advice and feedback

Confidence builds knowing they are on the right track and supported when facing challenges

It doesn't seem so risky to try it now with your support

Group may decide to take on a project to improve productivity, profitability and sustainability

Let's bring in an expert and run an on-farm demonstration

We could also go on a study tour to learn more

Farmer Peer-to-Peer Group funding available through the Integrated Engagement and Capacity Building Project, scan here to find out more information

The Integrated Engagement and Capacity Building project is funded through the Queensland Government's Queensland Reef Water Quality Program and delivered by the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries (DAF).

